Art Unit: 1714

Applicant's election with traverse of Group III in the reply filed on March 26, 2004 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that "The examiner has provided only a generalization that the intermediate products can be made to produce other final products". This is not found persuasive because the intermediate products and the final products suggested by the examiner are notoriously well known in the art.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 19-21, 23-25, 27, 31-33, 40-43, 45-47,, 53-60, 79 and 81-86 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over each of EP '984 and JP '040 Abstract in view of JP '006 and Godschalx et al.

Each of the primary references discloses electrical devices having a copper clad, glass fiber prepreg laminate structure. The incorporation of magnetic and ceramic materials is taught by the '006 reference while magnetic materials are taught by Godschalx. These references fail to teach the use of the polyvinylbenzyl ethers as claimed instantly.

Each of the secondary references teaches the production of polyvinylbenzyl ethers and their suitability for the production of laminates for electrical devices.

Art Unit: 1714

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to substitute the polymers of the secondary reference for those used in the primary reference when the benefits taught by the secondary reference were desired.

For the purposes of this office action, structure 1 in claim 22, for example, is seen as depicting fused alicyclic rings attached to a benzene ring.

Applicants' various production methods in the product by process claims are not seen as producing a patentable distinguishable product from the products of the prior art.

Claims 22 and 80 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
